Keep cords under wraps for a safer workplace

With all types of cords running through your facility, from patient rooms to operating rooms, cord "mismanagement" can become a serious issue—especially when dangerous cords or cables block walkways or wires and tubes dangle unsecured from medical equipment or computers. Implementing a proper cord management protocol with the use of cord wraps, covers, and detanglers can ensure cords are well secured facility-wide, helping to prevent trips, falls, or unintended entanglement for a safer environment for both staff and patients.
